Re; Docket #98N-1038, "Irradiation in the Production, Processing, and Handling of Food"

To whom it may concern:

Currently, the FDA requires that retail packages (including processed and unprocessed merchandise) or displays of irradiated food include both the logo for irradiation and a statement "treated by irradiation," and that such notices be prominently displayed. This practice should continue unchanged in order to give shoppers a choice between products.

Please take the actions necessary to further consumer right to know.

I believe it's very important to keep us
all informed, rather than hide or obscure the information. Those of us wanting to know exactly what we eat should be able to do so C2349
and do so very simply
